COL. C. N. KIRKBRIDE ADDRESSES MEETING ON UNION WITH S. F.

San Mateo Attorney Explains Details of Burough Form of Government for Promotion Club Group

Colonel C. N. Kirkbride addressed the Redwood City Promotion Association on Tuesday evening at the Central grammar school on the subject "Borough Government as Applied to San Mateo County."

He explained the work done by communities interested in the movement for consolidating San Mateo county with San Francisco during the last few years, and of the efforts leading up to the adoption by the voters recently of amendments to the San Francisco charter providing for a Borough form of government for this county in the event of consolidation. Similar provisions are contained in the new San Francisco charter which goes into effect next year.

In discussing the subject, he assumed for the sake of argument that the new plan had gone into effect, and illustrated the subject by showing just what would be done by the different county officials and by the city officers. For instance Supervisir Poole woulk go to San Francisco and sit in at the meetings of the Board of Supervisors in the San Francisco City Hall. He would there have a vote upon any matter which would come before the board, and naturally would have a determining voice upon any matter affecting his present district, such as major highways, water supply, sanitation, outfall sewers, police and fire protection and matters relating to the court house and jail.

Work in the court house would go on as usual, the present officials becoming city and county deputies in their respective departments. Clerks in the court house would immediately receive civil service status. Paid city firemen and policemen would immediately receive pension status without loss of seniority.

City officials in like manner would continue to function but as borough officers. The borough council would pass on such subjects as zoning, fire limits, street work, local sewer work, garbage collection, special permits, regulatory licenses, abatement of nuisances police regulations, borough elections, borough taxes, special assessment districts, contracts for supplies and labor, acceptance of legacies and devies employment of legal council ,to provide for retirement allowances and civil service with approval of voters, and making of agreements with other boroughs.

He also pointed out that in event of consolidation all bonded indebtedness of the county and of the different cities would be automatically taken over by the city and county but that we would assume none of the city and county indebtedness unless we specifically voted to do so. This would result in a decided saving of taxes. Other reductions in taxes would arise from economies in operation, the salaries of the present county officials and of operating the county becoming a city and county charge. All taxes would be collected on one roll, this would afford a further economy. The speaker pointed out that consolidation offered the only practicable solution of the problem of reducing taxes.

In closing he called attention to the advantage of getting in on the ground floor with reference to Hetch Hetchy water, thereby obtaining a lower water rate and saving in the construction of distribution mains. He also pointed out the great development which would probably result in the Memorial Park in Pescadero Canyon in the event of its becoming a county project.

P. Mensoian presided at the meeting, at which there was present a representative attendance of men and women. Numerous questions were asked and much interest was taken in the subject.

STATE GAS TAX NEAR $2,000,000.00

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Apr. 29 (UP)—California's gasoline taxes totaled $9,973,312.77 for the first quarter of 1931 according to an announcement tonight by the state board of equalization.

The amount represents a gain of $1,227,203.61, or 14.03 per cent over the comparable period of 1930. A similar gain throughout the year would give the state more than $45,000,000 in gasoline taxes, state officials claimed.

The gain was attributed partly to the increased use of gasoline as a result of recent "price wars."

RECKLESS DRIVER GETS FIVE DAY JAIL TERM

George Hirsinger, 24, a printer, was arrested at South San Francisco Tuesday evening by Deputy Sheriff Lawrence Neri. He was sentenced to a term of 5 days in the county jail by Justice of the Peace Edward Farrell on a charge of reckless driving.

Death Car Driver Not Identified at Hit-Run Inquest

Inquest Held Into Death of Boy Burned in Garage; Held Accidental

A coroner's jury called by County Coroner J. C. McGovern at South San Francisco this week to consider the evidence concerning the death of Robert Gibbs, killed on the Bayshore highway on April 18, found that Gibbs came to his death "by an automobile accident on the state highway at the intersection of Grand avenue and the Bayshore highway by being struck by a machine bearing the license 7D 3934, as a result of which said deceased received a basal fracture of the skull. We recommend that the driver be held for a court trial," so ruled a coroner's jury sitting in South San Francisco today.

An attempt to identify R. C. Knight, Redwood City furniture dealer, as driver of the car was frustrated by Knight's attorney. One witness when called upon to identify the driver of the car pointed to one of the jurors.

Knight is now being held on a charge of manslaughter and hit-run driving. Assistant District Attorney Richard O. Bell represented the prosecution at the inquest.

The same jury considered the facts concerning the death of Felix Roberts, 16-year-old jockey, who was killed when thrown from a horse at the Tanforan race track on the last day of the racing season, This death was found by the jury to have been accidental.

The week has been a busy one for the coroner. An inquest was held by him at Daly City Tuesday afternoon into the death of John Porcellano, who hanged himself from a tree near a cemetery at Lawndale. An inquest was held Tuesday afternoon at Burlingame into the death of Elbert Fawcett, who was killed on April 16, while crossing the Bayshore highway near Mills Field. Fawcett was struck by a car driven by John Garbarino, of San Mateo. His death was held to have been accidental.

An inquest was held Tuesday also into the death of 13-year-old Davis Litz, who was burned in the fire in the Towne garage on April 13, and who died later at the Mills Memorial hospital. The jury in this case found that death was due to "toxemia secondary to second and third degree burns caused by gasoline fire in garage at Webster and Theatre streets; gasoline being accidentally ignited."

An inquest was to have been held in San Mateo Tuesday into the death of Fred Vogt, who was killed on April 23 on the Bayshore highway, but this was postponed by Coroner McGovern until next Tuesday.

Federal Agents Seize Two Stills

Two large stills were seized by federal prohibition officers in a raid on two places at Colma, where the stills having a capacity of 300 gallons were seized. The officers found no one present at either place where the stills were found, so no arrests were made. This makes the third still to be seized in San Mateo county within the week as one was found at South San Francisco last Saturday. This was reported to have been the biggest still ever seized in the county.

Mrs. Whitelaw Reid, Daughter of Millbrae Founder, Dies In France

Well-Known Red Cross Worker Dies Soon After Leaving Estate at Millbrae; Wedding Fifty Years Ago Was Attended by President

Mrs. Whitelaw Reid widow of the late Whitelaw Reid, ambassador for the United States to England and France, and former resident of Millbrae, passed away Wednesday at her summer home in southern France.

Mrs. Reid was the daughter of D. O. Mills, founder of Millbrae and owner of the vast Mills estate, upon a portion of which the Mills Field, San Francisco's municipal airport is located. Mills made a fortune in California in the gold rush of 1849, and was the founder of the D. O. Mills bank. His son, Ogden Mills, is assistant secretary of the treasury.

Mrs. Reid was married just fifty years ago this week at the Mills summer home in New York. Reid at that time was editor of the New York Tribune, and the marriage was a big society event attended by President Garfield Mrs. Garfield, and many others prominent in the social life of the nation at that time. Later Reid became owner of the Tribune and was later given the important diplomatic posts.

Mrs. Reid left San Francisco April 5, after a three months' rest at the Mills estate in Milbrae, arriving in Paris five days ago. While enroute by train to Beaulieu with her daughter, Lady Jean Ward she contracted double pneumonia.

She was taken to her daughter's home where she succumbed. Mrs. Reid was 73 and one of the few women to be awarded the cross of the Legion of Honor highest French decoration. It was awarded for Red Cross service during the World war.

Mrs. Reid was an international society leader.

Shortly before she left for Europe Mrs. Reid presented Ophir Hall her 200-room mansion in Westchester Hills New York to the King and Queen of Siam where the King is to undergo an eye operation, the purpose of his visit to the United States.

The Reids had two children, a daughter and a son. Their daughter, Jean, was married to the Hon. John Huber Ward, son of the Earl of Dudley, in 1906. Their son, Ogden Mills Reid, married Helen M. Rogers and they are now in charge of the newspaper properties. D. O. Mills died in 1910, and Whitelaw Reid died two years later.

Origin of Spring Will Be Theme for Annual Spring Fete

With Bessie Lambrook, Valeria Basso and Edna Walker heading the cast of dancers, the annual May Fete to be presented May 9 by the Sequoia dancing class under the auspices of the Senior Girls Society, promises to be the best entertainment of its kind ever presented at Sequoia, according to those in charge.

Broken Gas Line Floods Chapel of Undertaking Co.

A peculiar odor in the air about the James Crowe undertaking parlors resulted in an investigation by Herman Phillips. He found that a three quarter inch gas pipe beneath the chapel of the parlors had been broken off and gas had been flowing freely up through the floor for two days.

The chapel is located above the creek, and it is believed that a boy had been swinging on the pipe, and had broken it off.

Ullmeyer for injuries alleged to have been received when she was struck by an automobile driven by Ullmeyer on El Camino Real, just south of the Five Points, several months ago.

Hall C. Ross was the attorney for the defendant in the action, and Norman Menefee represented the plaintiff.

S. M. Boys Suffer Strange Malady; Reported Better

Friends Give Blood to Assist Recovery of Boys With Sleeping Sickness

Two boys in the Mills Memorial hospital in San Mateo are suffering from a peculiar form of sleeping sickness, which has followed attacks of maesles. Boys and girls of their own age have been called upon by physicians to give blood to the two little fellows to aid them in combatting the disease. Many have responded.

The little patients are Roberte Ewing, son of Mrs. Alice Ewing, and David Blumer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Blumer.

Harvey Ewing, 7, brother of Robert, was one of the donors of blood. The others were Billy Bardet, 7; Nancy Street, 7; Fred Barro, 7; Frances, 6, and Catherine Heffen, 8; Alfred Blumer, 7, brother of David, and Valerie Blumer, 8, his sister.

The boys were given only a fighting chance by their physicians. But the gifts of blood offered freely by a score of boys and girls will prove an important factor, physicians said.

The boys suffered first from measles, a disease now confined almost entirely to children. Then they contracted pneumonia, which was followed by sleeping sickness. Physicians believed the only method of treatment was the injection of a serum made from the blood of persons who have recovered from measles.

Dr. William Palmer Lucas, child specialist, issued a call to the playmates of Robert and David. The pain of giving blood held no terrors for the children. A score responded.

Quickly the doctors made the serum and gave it to the patients. They responded to each injection, it was reported, but their condition is still critical.

Damage Action Settlement Made

A settlement of the damage claim of George Lamb, Sr., for injuries received by his three children in an automobile accident on January 27, had been made by Stanley Rice and his wife, Antoinette Rice for $200. The children were hurt when a car in which they were riding, and which was driven by their mother, collided with one driven by Mrs. Rice. The Lambs were represented in their action by Ross & Ross, Redwood City attorneys.

Kiwanis Club Plans For Evening Meeting

Wednesday was the closed meeting for the Redwood City Kiwanis Club, when matters concerning the club and its activities were discussed among the members. The chief topic of discussion was a letter written by City Treasurer B. E. Myers to the management of the Sequoia Theatre concerning the type of comedies which have been shown on nights when pictures which attract large numbers of children are on the program.

The attitude taken by the city treasurer met with an enthusiastic response from members of the club, and the matter was finally referred to the public affairs committee of the club to be taken up with the manager of the theatre. It was suggested by the president of the club that the committee work in conjunction with a committee from the Redwood City Woman's Club, which has already been active in this matter.

The club was given plans for the annual All-Kiwanis night which is to be held this year at the Cafe de Paris on the highway at 6 o'clock Monday evening. The speaker for this occasion will be Charles Huyck, of this city, salesmanager of the Gray-Bar Electric Company in San Francisco. The subject of Huyck's talk will be "The Effect of Modernistic Art on Everyday Life."

Bayshore Road Opening To Be Held May 14th

S. F. Opens Drive To Buy Land For Dirigible Base

1000-Acre Tract at Sunnyvale To Be Given Government For One Dollar

The drive to raise the funds for the purchase of the land for use by the San Francisco chamber of vale dirigible base, has been opened b ythe San Francisco chamber of commerce.

The San Francisco body is faced with the problem of raising several hundred thousand dollars in order that the site may be presented to the government at the price of one dollar. In order that it may fulfill its promise to the government, the chamber of commerce of San Francisco is asking the hearty co-operation of its membership.

In a letter to members, President Leland W. Cutler of the chamber pointed out that the Navy Department is now ready to proceed with the $5,000,000 project; that the plan of financing was agreed upon by leading businessmen many months ago, and that it is imperative that title to the 1,000 acre site be delivered at the earliest possible moment. He added:

"Our pledge to the Government was made in keen competition with other sections of California making similar offers and with a full realization of the industrial stimulus that this great project will give our community."

It has been announced by the Twelfth Naval District that employment will be given to between 300 and 500 men as soon as construction work on the Sunnyvale airport is started. When the base is completed there will be employed from 80 to 100 civilians and about 400 enlisted men and officers. It is estimated that the navy department will spend from $20,000 to $50,000 a month in the maintenance of the base. More than half of the $5,000,000 which the port is expected to cost will be in payrolls.

Electric Meeting Held at Belmont

A joint meeting of the prominent electrical contractor-dealers in San Mateo county and representatives of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company, Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Co.,, and the Wesix Electric Heating Co., was held at Belmont this week.

The first subject on the speakers' program was taken up by Frank Montgomery of the Pacific Gas and Electric Co., who discussed and explained in full the load building and co-operative dealer campaign advocated by the Pacific Gas and Electric Co. for the year 1931 on the peninsula.

The great potential market for electric air and water heaters in the peninsula territory from the electrical contractor-dealer's standpoint and the innumerable advantages and economies effected with the use of electricity in general house heating and water heating, were presented to the meeting in a very definite manner by Thos. J. Mellon of the Wesix Company.

Bruce Brownlee of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, a member of the society of Military Engineers, gave a very thorough discussion of the desirability of electric cooking and gave a very constructive talk on the possibilities of industrial development on the peninsula in view of the many new projects which will be launched in the very near future.

The volume of sales of electric heating and cooking equipment for the first quarter of 1931 on the peninsula indicated that the annual volume of sales of this equipment in this territory will approximate $500,000.00 for the year 1931.

Skeggs, state highway engineer, it was deemed advisable to postpone the opening until later on account of the inclement weather, which delayed the work of topping the new link.

Permit Granted in Bayshore Crossing

The California railroad commission has granted permission for the construction of an underpass beneath the tracks of the Southern Pacific's Dumbarton line for the Bayshore highway. The underpass will be built a short distance south and east of Redwood City.

Educational 'Doodads'

By MELVIN LORD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

What's wrong with education in California?

"Plenty," is the apparent answer based on the results of a questionnaire sent to 50,000 residents of the state by the Califonia commission for the study of educational probems.

The queries sought to determine what are generally considered to be the three outstanding public school problems of California. The replies listed problems by the thousand.

"We have added so many subjects to our curriculum—even tap-dancing is offered at a nearby school. Might not some of these accomplishments be omitted, and a course of study be designed to give a child a thorough training in a few essentials?"

This was the comment of an Oakland mother, whose sentiments were reiterated throughout the replies received by the commission to indicate a decided belief that there should be an educational return to fundamentals such as "readin', 'riting' and 'rithmatic."

The teachers also come in for a wholesome share of criticism in the replies. One answer said "less gin and cigarets among teachers;" another, "less technique and more personal qualification in teaching" and still another asserted that "teachers should be more carefully selected for character and temperament."

Many California citizens also pointed out that the schools are inclined to ignore the problem of ethics, and that the children should be given "some standard of manners and morals." "There are too many educational 'doodads,'" another asserted, "and not enough real discipline and grind required to develop mind and character.

Educational costs also was stressed as a "problem" in the answers, with many of the citizens urging that the state take over a greater share of school expenses. Others declared that the cost should increase only as the population increase, and that the state could do well to build less expensive buildings and use the monetary difference to obtain better teachers.

Chatauqua's Decline

If the current season doesn't hear the Chatauqua sing its own swan song the next probably will. Throughout the country there are indications that this institution is making a sort of last stand for existence. Every season closes with fewer communities renewing their contracts and with more Chatauquas going out of business.

Many causes are contributing to its demise. Talent has been attracted to other fields by higher pay. The talkies, radio and automobile furnish stiff competition. The Chatauqua was intended to provide the people of the smaller communities with a variety of instruction and entertainment that was difficult to obtain in any other way.

Today the villager demands something more spectacular than he can find in the Chatauqua tent.

Improve Now

No better time could be found for general remodeling and addition of improvements than the present. Price of materials and wages are lower than for a long time. Any such improvements made now will be to the advantage of the property owner, and will also be welcomed by many competent workmen who need employment.

The expenditure of a few hundred dollars on many houses in Redwood City will add greatly to the general appearance of our community and will enhance the value of the property. New paint, roof repairs, installation of modern plumbing and lighting systems, the adding of an additional room, porch or other general improvements long planned, can be done now for much less than it can be done in fall or next year.

Business Is Improving

Basing his statement on figures and not on hopes, Roger W. Babson, celebrated business statistician, recently told President Hoover that business has "turned the corner" and will continue gradually but slowly to improve.

Mr. Babson is undoubtedly one of the keenest business analysts in the country. He is always prepared to back up his opinions with convincing figures and never permits his hopes to run away with sound conclusions arrived at in his judgment. His belief that busines has "turned the corner" is shared by many competent and experienced observers. The improvement will not be rapid but it will be gradual.

A Human Governor

By D. E. O'KEEFE

Jim Rolph—a human governor!

Some time ago there appeared in a contemporary an editorial attack on the chief executive of California, in which the word "playboy" was freely used.

A member of the state legislature—one never friendly to Rolph, and who, by his very character, never could be friendly to Rolph—"deplores" the fact that even while the state legislature is in session, the governor makes frequent short trips away from Sacramento.

The legislature, to paraphrase this editorial attack, is left gasping for air ,utterly ignorant of what the governor's executive policies may be. Let us examine the facts:

Governor Rolph does indeed, most generously, give of his time and strength, to carry the gospel of friendliness and humanism to the four corners of his native state.

But Governor Rolph has his legislative house in order just the same, leaving most properly to his floor leaders in the senate and the assembly, the presentation of administration policies in accordance with the governor's known desires.

Can it be possible that Governor Rolph's critics do not recognize a "double-track" mind when they see it in action?

Can it be possible that California has been so long without a human governor that one such as Rolph appears incomprehensible to those who lack these admirable qualities?

It was about time that a personality in keeping with the personality of our great California occupy the governor's chair.

It was about time that the spirit of humanism and friendliness be spread like a mantle of sunshine over our Golden State.

It was about time that a Rolph be elevated to the office of chief executive that the fame of California be carried far and wide as was the name of San Francisco during his incumbency as mayor.

Don't worry about Jim Rolph, O ye of narrow vision!

His policies are being rounded out quite nicely. His legislative leadership, administered without the tinge of petty interference on his part, is making itself distinctly felt.

And California has a governor with understanding and with a heart.

Wide Open Spaces or Wide-Open Places

Being a "wide open town" is apparently bringing business to Reno, Nevada, but it may also have its drawbacks. Sheriff Russell Trathen is reported in a United Press dispatch this week to have petitioned the board of commissioners of Washoe county for a supply of machine guns and other infernal machines to combat the flood of gangsters who are trecking toward the Nevada metropolis. Machine guns have been ordered by Washoe county including both short range guns for use in town and long range guns for use in the hills.

Apparently Reno's increased business possibilities and the discouraging effects of Chicago's clean-up is resulting in a westward trend to gangdom. Chicago has long been considered a wide-open town. But it has now turned over a new leaf and finds its treasury depleted, its offices controlled by gangsters, its police department corrupted, and its civic affairs generally in a muddle. If Reno's wide-open policy is to make it the heir, legatee, and assignee of Chicago's undesirable reputation, the business gained may prove to be dearly purchased.

It's all right when the sheriff buys the machine guns to chase out the gangsters; but Chicago found that it was not long before the gangsters were buying machine guns to chase out each other, and to chase out the police when the latter proved unfriendly.

Overnight Millions

The embarrassments and inconveniences of sudden wealth are acutely realized by citizens of Oklahoma City, who have witnessed the devastating effects of a community engulfed by a rising tide of oil.

What sudden oil wealth does to one's friends and neighbors is vividly told in the current issue of the American Magazine by Mrs. Cora Miley, who has lived in Oklahoma City for many years and has watched the golden gushers come in. From her cottage windows at night she can see 900 oil wells, gay with their flamboyant strings of life, illuminated like a blazing fairyland.

This new area, eight miles long and five miles wide, is perhaps the greatest oil field in the world. But Mrs. Miley's picture of it has an overpowering note of regret and pathos. "I remember well," she says "when the landscape where the oil field started was a smiling place, quiet, rural, beautiful.

"Now all is a desert, a fiery furnace. The lilac and honeysuckle are broken and covered with grime.

"People here have stumbled, often accidentally, on the shining shimmering rainbow's end, the pot of gold. It is happening every day. Men and women find themselves enormously rich over night. Before the black, slick, sticky flood of oil came upon us, we had lived peaceably, contentedly. We built houses, tamed the soil. Now I begin to wonder whether after all the black flood really has brought happiness to the people of my city.

"There are so many things that money cannot buy. For all the blessings which petroleum has brought into the world, the stream of liquid gold does not assay 100 per cent pure and fine. Too often greed controls the game—not a polite greed that takes while it smiles, but a bestial greed that sets aside integrity, honor, the quality of fair play, and the rights of others."

CONCERNING THE ACTION AND CHARACTERS

SHEILA ALLEN, bound for Europe in a tourist cabin, has a cabinmate.

CONSTANCE KERR, a millionaire's daughter, who is her twin in looks. Sheila, after years in a rural town, is seeking adventure.

She has refused to marry her guardian, YOUNG DOCTOR MALCOM BAXTER. Constance tells Sheila she is Heaven-sent-a means of escape from a terrible mess.

Constance is fleeing from her husband, THE COUNT DE BELLEFONTE, whom she married that morning.

She consented to marry him after a quarrel with HARRY EDMONDS, with whom she is desperately in love.

His letters begging her forgiveness are kept from her by her mother. She finds them immediately after her marriage. Realizing that she can never be the Count's wife, she takes passage for Europe at once. Harry is in England.

She begs Sheila to impersonate her in Paris for a few days, while she seeks Harry in London, to try to find a way out of her muddle.

Chapter 7.

The Pact

Sheila asked for time to think over Constance Kerr's proposition. "Let me consider it a little," she begged. "It's always best to sleep on a decision of importance, isn't it?"

The impetuous Constance, who had never before brooked delay, was forced to agree. Too much depended on Sheila's assent for her to risk frightening the girl off by her insistence. She had a suspicion that her story, minus any mention of her fears of pursuit by her bridegroom, was a trifle weak, and her only hope was that Sheila wouldn't sense it.

She remained in the stateroom, pretending to be prostrated, while Sheila had her first meal in the dining-salon of an ocean liner and experienced the exquisite joy of lying in a deck-chair and watching a yellow moon rise out of the sea. When she returned to the cabin, Constance, looking very pretty in a confection of apricot-colored silk and lace, was propped up in her berth, sipping an ice drink and pulling a chicken sandwich to pieces. She declared the food was perfectly atrocious and vowed she couldn't sleep on a mattress that was as hard as a board.

Sheila, who had passed many a night, during the last five years, on a cot in a tiny room adjoining the invalid Cousin Dora's, privately considered her berth a haven of downy softness. She went to bed and slept the sleep of a child.

Constance slept fitfully and awakened to face her problem again, just as dawn came. She experienced the swift revulsion of feeling that comes to those who act on impulse. With horror she recalled her confidences of the afternoon before to the girl who lay peacefully sleeping in the opposite berth. It occurred to Constance that, if ever any one had laid herself open to blackmail, provided Sheila was that type of person, she had certainly done so, with a vengeance. "What ever possessed me to tell so much?" she thought vexedly. "I could as easily have made up another type of story to get her help."

But, when she recalled the Count—the man she had married the day before — who, within a few hours, might be embarking for France, she knew why she had made a clean breast of her difficulty to a perfect stranger. She was willing to accept help from any quarter.

Later, when it grew lighter in the cabin, and she could see Sheila, she was once more reassured. The girl was so obviously not an adventuress. She lay with her face toward Constance; the beauty of its features, the creamy skin, with its hint of rose, the long lashes resting on the curve of her cheeks gave her the appearance of a sleeping child. Constance thought: "She's prettier than I am. That's the duce of it."

Sheila opened her eyes suddenly to find Constance's gaze fixed upon her. She said: "Oh, good morning," drowsily sighed, stretched, and sat up in bed. "Do you know, I thought I'd dreamed the whole thing," she confided, when she was fully awake. "All of our talk yesterday, I mean."

"I wish I'd dreamed my marriage with Jean," remarked Constance, with a grimace. "Well, what's the the decision?"

"Oh, dear, must I decide before breakfast?"

"Don't tell me you're hungry! How disgustingly healthy you must be I warn you, the coffee is always rotten on boats like this." Constance stretched her arms above her head suddenly, in a gesture of despair. "If you're not going to help me, I hope I die," she wailed.

Sheila climed out of her berth and stepped into her slippers, wrapping a kimona about her slim body.

"I am going to help you, Miss Kerr, but . . . I'll be honest, I'm not sure that I'm doing it so much for you as for the adventure."

Constance's mood changed with lightning rapidity. She reached out and caught the sleve of Sheila's kimona and drew the girl to her.

"Sheila Allen, you're a brick. . . And you'll never be sorry, I promise you!" She kissed the astonished Sheila on the cheek.

Almost at once, she began to plan. "We must be careful not to let any one see us together. We don't want comment on our extraordinary resemblance to get about and complicate matters. You'd best always leave the cabin before I ring for the stewardess, and, of course, you'll never be here when my meals are sent down. We'll start this very morning to rehearse you in the role of Constance Kerr, because we've only eight days in which to perfect you in the part. Seven, really, because I leave the ship at Southampton."

Sheila found herself becoming excited. This was really going to be fun. Dangerous fun, perhaps, but certainly more thrilling than merely crossing the ocean alone in a tourist cabin on a slow and not too fashionable boat.

She bathed and dressed and breakfasted and had a turn or two on deck, with the cool salt breeze from a sunlit sea beating against her face and stinging the color into her cheeks. She told Constance, when she descended to the cabin, that it was such a pity she couldn't be out to enjoy the sea. But Constance only said languidly: "I'm sick of the sea. I spend weeks on board yachts each year, and I don't care if I never see it again."

Sheila reflected inwardly that, if she were going to pose as Constance Kerr for a time, she would have to drop her enthusiasms. And, with the joy of living lifting her on tiptoe, it was going to be very difficult to appear blase and bored.

Constance proved something of a slave-driver. When Sheila took a book from her bag — a new novel that Doctor Mac sent her as a bon voyage gift — and prepared to return to the deck, Constance stopped her peremptorily.

"No time for that now, Sheila Allen. Your job this morning is to go to the hair-dresser and have your hair done like mine. After that, we'll try on some of my gowns. They many not fit you, you know, but they'll do until you reach Paris and can buy more."

"Until you reach Paris and can buy more!" A phrase calculated to thrill every feminine heart. But Sheila wondered if Constance Kerr thought her modest legacy could be stretched to cover Paris frocks. Then Constance remarked carelessly: "I'll pay for them, of course. But you can consult your own taste. I think it's very good, as a matter of fact." Her eyes swept the unassuming blue traveling-frock that Sheila wore.

Sheila passed a blissful hour in the beauty-parlor, which was on the first-class deck. People in smart sports clothes were promenading past the port-holes. This was a glimpse of the life she would taste in a few days, Sheila told herself. She had a shampoo and a manicure and recklessly spent a dollar and a half for an expensive perfumed lotion for sealp massage.

When she descended again to the cabin, Constance dropped her book, with a little cry of satisfaction. "My dear, you'll do! You'll do wonderfully."

But Sheila was looking grave "On the first-class deck a young man spoke to me. He said: 'Constance Kerr, it can't be you!' I didn't know what to do, so I told him he had make a mistake, but I don't think he was convinced at all."

Constance said: "Get me the passenger list! Quick.

NAVAJO SAND PAINTING PRESERVED FOR MUSEUM

TUCSON, Ariz, May 1 (UP)—A Navajo Indian sand painting, said to be the only one in existence, is attracting many spectators at the University of Arizona museum here.

Members of the Navajo tribe achieve beautiful productions of natural scenes by strewing colored sand on light sifted sand but they are destroyed before sundown each night.

The picture for the museum was obtained by Mrs. John Weatherall, who spent most of her girlhood around the Navajo Indians. It was after much effort that a painter was persuaded to come to the museum and prepare the painting as he, in common with other members of the tribe, believe that permitting the Sun to set on a painting will bring sickness to the clan.

WOMAN JAILER LEGIONNAIRE

PARIS, (UP)—Sister Leonie, superior of Saint Lazare Prison, the woman's gaol in Paris, is about to be promoted an Officer of the Legion of Honor. Sister Leonie took up her duties at Saint-Lazare 60 years ago. She saw the commune and all its horrors. She confronted the beautiful spy Mata Hari, before she faced the firing party, and it was she who received her last confidences. She has had in her charge Therese Humbert, Mme Bessarabo (the trunk murderess), Mme. Steinheil, and many other figures of famous trials.

MENLO PARK

By a vote of 35 to 4 the city council of Menlo Park was instructed to proceed with the street improvements as planned east of the state highway at the mass meeting held in Trinity hall Monday evening The gathering was composed of property owners in the area sought to be improved.

Mayor Weeden called the meeting to order and suggested that Professor Philip Perham be made chairman. On taking the chair, Mr. Perham briefly explained the objects of the gathering, remarking that at the last meeting of the council it would appear that the people were almost unanimous in favor of the contemplated street work. He wanted to know what had been done in reference to improving the lower end of Pine street, whereupon Judge Cluff proffered a deed to the forty-foot strip of land at the lower end of Pine to Ravenswood to the city for public purposes. The deed was turned over to City Attorney Whitworth who agreed to look into the legality of the instrument.

City Engineer Mehl explained briefly the nature of the streets sought to be improved.

The work is proposed to be done under the street improvement acts of 1911 and 1915. The approximate cost of the average 50-foot lot would be as follows: Pine and Cherry streets $125, plus sewer, incidentals and a portion of intersections and side streets; Oak Grove avenue, southwest of Laurel, $115, plus items on Pine; Northeast of Laurel $65, plus incidentals; Laurel, Mills, Glenwood $65 plus incidentals. On corner lots fifty feet of the 150 will be assessed. Mr. Mehl was asked numerous questions, answering them with intelligence and to the satisfaction of all.

Mr. McElroy, a San Francisco contractor, owning property on Mills and Glenwood, withdrew his protest, saying that he was laboring under a misapprehension when he signed the protest.

George Casey, one of the Casey heirs owning property on Oak Grove avenue, not far from the highway, objected to the improvements on that street for the reason that the street ought to be widened, but he withdrew his protest for work to be done in front of Mrs. Morlock's property on Mills avenue.

Mr. Mehl explained that Oak Grove from the highway to the railroad tracks would be forty-four feet wide and would be paved from curb to curb, that the surfacing of the center of the street would be paid from the city treasury, while the shoulders, sidewalks and curb would be met by the property owners. Casey insisted that the street should be widened. Both City Attorney Whitworth and Councilman Crane asserted that the enormous cost of work precluded any consideration of the question.

J. B. Welsh declared the proposed widening of the avenue was simply propaganda to befog the mind of the property owner. He thought too much of that had been spread to the detriment of the cause of paving.

Jay Cooper wanted to know about the bonds, when they were to be paid, etc. City Attorney Whitworth said the bonds were to run for a period of ten years and a tenth of the issue was to be paid off each year. The first bond would not have to be paid until 1933 and that seven per cent was the rate of interest to be charged.

Edward Derry, who owns 100 feet on Cherry street, objected to the improvement. He owned the corner and owing to the shortness of the street, he would have to assume the greater portion of the burden. Then, too, he objected to the program of not extending the improvements on Laurel to Ravenswood. He thought the Mills estate was fully able to pay its share of the cost. Miss Noel said she owned the property spoken of declaring that it was not a public necessity to do the work at this time. It would serve no purpose. Derry, in a forceful speech, could not see it that way. He couldn't see why he should pay three-fifths of the costs of paving Cherry street, while such a rich estate should go unburdened.

E. H. Hart urged that Pine street be paved and sidewalks be put down on both sides. This was agreed to by Weeden, Dale, Anderson and Crane who were present.

City Attorney Whitworth was instructed to examine the legality of the Cluff deed and be in a position to proceed with the change in the resolution of intention to include the lower end of Pine street in the improvements planned.

Mr. Armstrong of Stanford Park brought words of cheer from that section, saying that the improvements now being made would be completed in about three weeks. The people there were happy and satisfied with the new order of things and were thankful to the council for starting the improvements. Armstrong asserted that the property owners in the area now about to be improved would also be grateful to the council for its good work and would commend the present city administration, including the gifted city engineer and able city attorney.

Meta Kugeler said the Ladies Guild of Trinity church would always be pleased to give the hall free of charge to community meetings. The chairman thanked the ladies on behalf of those present for the generous offer.

The meeting was a representative one, nearly all the property owners interested being present. About fifty attended. At the adjournment of the big gathering, coffee and cake served as a stimulant to bring together the warring factions, so that all left the hall agreeing that street improvements were a good thing for the town and everyone felt ready to get behind the council in its efforts to improve Menlo Park, thus aiding it to take its rightful place alongside its sister cities of the peninsula, in the program of improvements.

Fred Paletti, the local horticulturist, celebrated the tenth anniversary of his marriage Sunday by giving a dinner to his friends at his home on Laurel avenue. The twenty-five guests present enjoyed a delectable repast. Mr. Paletti was born in the Tyrol Alps, where his boyhood was spent, and where he became a mountain climber of note in toteing tourists through the rugged country composing the Alps. Mr. Paletti and his charming wife are beloved by all who know them.

W. E. Monroe, the local realty broker this week leased the Furnivall home on the Alameda to Tomi Fredericks. Mr. Furnivall, who has been occupying the house, will take a dwelling in town.

Joseph Bonneti of South San Francisco has leased the Pastime Pool Parlors on the highway. The new owner is to conduct a clean and orderly place, where all may come and have a good time. Mr. Bonnettai is to move here from South San Francisco when he can secure a suitable residence.

The Menlo Park police department was increased last Thursday evening when a baby boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Dyer in St. Joseph Hospital in San Francisco. The proud father is one of the popular officers of the local department. Dr. Eileen Leonard, talented daughter of Dr. A. T. Leonard, aided the stork in delivering the big boy, was raised in Menlo Park and is considered by the medical profession as one of the ablest physicians in the city. She is a close friend of the mother, who with the late arrival is doing nicely.

The work of cleaning Holy Cross cemetery is nearly completed. More funds are needed to finish the job. Those who have not contributed to this worthy cause are urged to do so at once. The graveyard looks beautiful with its well-kept plots and walks free of weeds and grass. It takes money to do this. Those having relatives buried there ought to be generous.

Early Monday morning last John M. Love, father of Chief Love of the Menlo Park police department, passed away at the Community hospital at Belmont, following a lingering illness. The deceased was a native of Texas, aged 73. The deceased was a carpenter by occupation, working at his trade here for the past ten years. Mr. Love passed the greater portion of his long life in Chicago, where for many years he was a prosperous builder and contractor. His wife died some years ago.

Mr. Love was an amiable gentleman, who had a faculty of making friends and holding them. He is survived by his son, Frank Love, and a daughter, Mrs. Bert Herrin, of Menlo Park, and by two daughters and a son living in the east. Interment was at Alta Mesa cemetery.

The regular meeting of the city council took place Tuesday evening, all members of the council being present.

The matter of hearing protests on the Pine street improvements was continued to Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock. A resolution was adopted declaring the lower end of Pine street dedicated for improvement purposes.

An ordinance and a resolution 31-3 were adopted authorizing the council to extend and improve Live Oak avenue. It is to be extended to University avenue.

Adoption of the fire cracker ordinance was continued to Thursday evening.

A Seiller was appointed to a four-year term on the planning commission. He is a member of the present commission.

A resolution was adopted exacting a bond in the sum of $500 from all persons desiring to dig up public streets for the laying of pipes, etc.

City Attorney Whitworth was allowed $20 for expenses in looking up title to the right of way over lower end of Pine street.

The council adjourned to meet Thursday evening, April 30, at 7:30.

Mrs. Lyon, the manager of the Bear Gulch Water Company, wishes to assure the people of Menlo Park that there will be no shortage of water this summer. Provisions have been made by the company to supply all demands made upon it during the dry season. New wells have been put into operation to insure an abundant supply to the system.

The Native Daughters will hold the third of a series of their card parties in their hall next Wednesday evening. Large crowds attend these games.

Joseph Horn has gone to Minneapolis to visit relatives. He will be absent until next June.

M. Kennedy Bliss, engineer of the San Francisco office of the Board of Fire Underwriters of the Pacific Coast, was in Menlo Park on Thursday and Friday testing two of the pumpers of the Menlo Park district fire department and the water pressure in the hydrants. He found that the two pumpers, which are getting old, were pretty good yet, and took data from the hydrant back to the city to check up on.

Mr. Bliss was loosening up a hydrant on the highway in Menlo Park Thursday, when Chief of Police Love happened along and inquired into the affair. Mr. Bliss showed his credentials and both smiled over the incident.

Fred Metcalf has sold his pretty home in the Hermosa tract to the University Realty Company of Palo Alto. Mr. Metcalf received a fancy figure for the property, which is the show place of that tract. In a short time Mr. Metcalf and his charming wife will leave for Berkeley, their former home. It is to be regretted that Menlo Pork is to lose this popular and worthy family that have done so much for the community in a social way. Menlo Park needs more people like the Metcalfs. They carry with them the best wishes of the community for success in their new home.

Robert Montrose, chief bookkeeper for Tony's Taxi, leaves next week for his boyhood home in Chicago to be gone for a month. He goes east to visit his aged parents.

Charles E. Thomas, local realtor, yesterday assumed charge of the Searchlight, and will hereafter edit and conduct that publication.

COLUMBUS, O. (UP)—There'll be no more "ducking" of seniors or freshmen either at Ohio State University. A decree issued by University officials banned all forms of hazing here. An accident in which Dwight Teegardin suffered two broken vertebrae during a "ducking" was responsible for the order.

Pitching Staff Not, Sure Means of Victory

Pitching, most managers will tell you, is responsible for 60 to 70 per cent of a team's success. Maybe so, but let us consider the case of the Boston Red Sox.

Now, the Red Sox have finished last in the American league for years, and would seem to be headed for the cellar again in 1931. Yet the Red Sox, with the possible exception of the Washington Senators and the St. Louis Cardinals, have the strongest pitching staff in baseball.

Last year the club's regular working four was Milton Gaston, Danny MacFayden, Horace Lisenbee and Jack Russell, truly a formidable quartete. This year the mound crop is even stronger. Ed Morris, who won 19 games for the tail-enders in 1928 and 14 in 1929, has recovered from his arm ailment and is fit for duty. Wilcey Moore, one-time New York Yankee star relief hurler, and Jim Brillheart, one-time Washington Senators star, having been added to the staff. Both Moore and Brillheart went great in the American Association last year.

With all this strength the Red Sox seem doomed o the cellar. The Sox seem doomed to the cellar. The their opening series with the Yankees, despite the fact that Manager Shano Collins used practically his whole staff against the Ruppert Rifles. The men all pitched well but were given little or no support at the plate by their mates. In 1930 the Red Sox hit but .264, exactly 45 points lower than the Yankees. The Yankees scored 1,062 runs against 612 for the Red Sox.

Judging by the performance of the Red Sox pitching is less important than power at the plate.

One has to turn only to the Phillies, however, to find support for the argument that pitching plays a tremendous part. The Phillies last year finished second to the Giants in club batting but finished way down deep in the National league cellar. In 1929 they topped the league in club batting with an average of .309 but could finish no better than fifth.

Cherokee Trackmen Meet Defeat by Two Thirds of a Point on Menlo Oval

Losing by two-thirds of a point, the Sequoia Union high school varsity track team was defeated Tuesday by the Menlo high unlimited team 61 1-3 to 60 2-3 on the Menlo Park oval. Dale Childers was high-point man of the meet, with four first places in high hurdles, discus, shotput, and javelin.

Although the Cherokees garnered eight firsts during the meet. Meulo won six firsts and a number of seconds. Menlo won the relay which was the deciding event of the meet. The Cherokees showed strength in the field and most of the track events, but were weak in the sprints.

Jack Franklin made the outstanding time of the meet with :53.2 in the 440-yard dash, which is considered under the present Sequoia interclass record. Childers in winning the high sticks made the record-breakng time of :17.1, which is close to the league record for that event and is likely to place in the coming league meet next week.

Tomorrow morning the Sequoia high lightweight trackmen will battle for honors in the P. A. L. in the Stanford oval. The Cherokee 120's should have a good chance to take honors; the 130's will also have strong possibilities. Next Saturday the varsity meet will be held on the Stanford oval. The Sequoia track team will also compete for honors in the unlimited division.

MAYBE SO, MAYBE SO

Yes, this is Stan Laurel, the movie funster, surrounded by a flock of curious Honolulu beach boys. He produced his trusty rod and reel, collected a crowd, and then attempted to show the boys they were all wrong in their use of nets, spears and fish traps.

Sequoia and P. A. Leading in P. A. L.

By virtue of their 4-2 defeat of San Jose high school 130-pound squad Tuesday, the Sequoia Union high school went into a tie for first place with Palo Alto high school. The game with the Vikings will be played off on the Sequoia diamond for the Peninsula Athletic championship.

Sequoia and San Jose both sent over runs in the first inning, with Shine coming in in Kniveton's single. A double and single tied the score for San Jose in their half of the inning.

The feature of the game was Kniveton's home run, but it was not counted because he failed to touch second base during his run around the bases. Preader got a triple for Sequoia during the game and Swanson connected for a bouble and two singles in four trips to the platter. Swanson got his hit with the bases loaded and sent in runs. Kniveton was responsible for sending two runs over.

The losers connected for a home run to open the fifth, following this up with a triple. This ended the scoring at 4 to 2 for the remainder of the seven inning contest.

Emile Pommes pitched steady ball for Sequoia the entire game and returned a number of San Jose batsmen via the strikeout route. Millay pitched fairly good ball for San Jose.

Later in the day, George Hoenck and Tom Needham journeyed to Palo Alto to debate negatively on the same question, from which they returned victorious. The last battle was won from Los Gatos, a postponed engagement. Mrs. Elizabeth Littler is the coach.

Railway Offers Low Rate Fares On Mothers' Day

Cent-A-Mile Rates To Be In Effect May 8 and 9

Observance of Mother's Day on May 10 this year may be expected to result in thousands of home gatherings in California and other western states as part of the national homage to those honored on the special occasion.

This became a certainty today with announcement by the Southern Pacific Company of plans for another cent-a-mile sale of round-trip transportation on Fiday, May 8, and Saturday, May 9, with return limit of Thursday midnight, May 14.

Intended to expidite family reunions on the day set aside for loving tribute to the nation's mothers, the new bargain offering of transportation will also serve to carry on the railroad's novel experiment in rail taffic merchandising, according to L. R. Dains, agent for the company in this city.

Arrangements for the forthcoming excursions provide for a two-day sale, such as inaugurated in connection with the Easter offering of penny-a-mile train rides, Dains said. In this way, he pointed out, it will be possible for workers to leave Saturday afternoon or evening for week-end trips, even though they must return home by Monday.

Based on three-fifths of the regular one-way travel cost, the Mother's Day roundtrip fares will be good on all coach and Pullman trains over Southern Pacific lines from Portland to El Paso and from San Francisco to Ogden, it was announced. Salt Lake City will also be included in the territory to be covered by the excursions.

The continuation of Southern Pacific's distinctive efforts to regain passenger travel for the rails is attracting national attention, Dains declared. More than a score of middle western railroads operating out of Chicago recently ran cent-a-mile excursions after the manner in which Southern Pacific introduced its "dollar day" sales of train rides on February 20 and 27 and again fo the Easter period.

Gets Six Months For Tool Theft

Raymond Espinosa, found guilty by a jury Tuesday of petty theft in connection with the disappearance of a small quantity of tools from the garage of Miller Paulsen at the Five Points, was sentenced to six months in the county jail by City Police Judge Edward I. McAuliffe Wednesday morning. Espinosa was given the alternative of either serving the jail term or having the sentence suspended with the understanding that he leave Redwood City for a period of six months. He chose the lattr.

TWO ARRESTED

Harold Martin, steam shovelman, was arrested by Officer Thorpe of the Redwood City police department Wednesday and charged with vagrancy. He was booked at the county jail on that charge. Report Shows 141 Felonies For Two-Year Term

Biennial Summary Indicates Increase in Number of Criminal Cases

By RUSSELL D. PENNYCOOK

SACRAMENTO, Cal., May. 1 (UP)—Felony cases in San Mateo county prosecuted by the district attorney, numbered 141 in the two year period concluded January 1, 1930.

The biennium report of Attorney General U. S. Webb, submitted this week to Governor James J. Rolph, Jr., showed a total of 18,882 criminal prosecutions for felonies in the superior courts of the state.

"This biennial report again shows an increase in criminal cases," Attorney General Webb says, "1,266 more persons being charged with major offenses than during the preceding biennium."

"New legislation adding to the number of statutory crimes, and the gain in poulation readily explain this increase."

In discussing the amendment to constitution of the state of California passed in 1927, which permitted a defendant in a criminal case to waive jury trial and be tried before a judge Webb writes.

"Experience has manifested the wisdom of such a law in the brief period since its adoption. Principally in the centers of population, persons charged with offenses have waived juries and been tried under the new procedure. All reports indicate that such trials are more speedy and more cases are handled in considerbale less time than was formerly required.

"While a comparison indicates no great difference between the two methods of trial in the respective percentages of convictions and acquittals, yet it is obvious that the newer method has resulted in a great saving of the court's time, and by eliminating jury fees in such cases has materially reduced the expense incident to criminal prosecution while at the same time according the accusied full protection in his rights."

Of the 18,882 persons charged with felonies, 3,577 were disposed of before trial. Pleas of guilty or convictions numbered 12,667 and acquittals were 2,065. Cases pending at the time of the report were 1,363.

Justice Courts Cost San Mateo County $19,037

The Increased Jurisdiction of Lower Courts Relieves Higher Tribunals

By J. F. McLAUGHLIN

SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 1 (UP) San Mateo county's seven justice courts were maintained at a cost of $19,037 during 1930 according to the report of the judicial council of California released this week.

The report by Judge Harry A. Hollzer, Los Angeles reviews the assignment of judges and the number of decisions rendered and actions heard.

The justices' courts, together with the police and recorder's or city courts constitute the so-called inferior courts of the state.

"Between August 15, 1929, when the legislation increasing the jurisdiction of justices' courts in the larger centers became effective, and the close of the last fiscal year, 6,079 suits, involving more than $300 each were filed in these courts," the report says.

"Of this number, 2,882 cases were filed in San Francisco, 1,139 in Oakland, 526 in San Diego, 235 in San Jose, 206 in Pasadena, 149 in Fresno, 140 in Stockton, 134 in Bakersfield, 130 in Glendale, 121 in San Bernardino, 117 in Santa Ana, while the remainder were filed among some half a dozen other inferior courts."

During the same year the number of civil actions commenced in Los Angeles county municipal courts totaled 15,474 cases, the report said. Each of these involved more than $300 in value. This number was more than 65 per cent of the volume of civil suits filed in Los Angeles superior courts.

"It must be considered that civil actions started in municipal and justices' courts ordinarily can be tried in much less time than required for the same number ofcases in superior court," Judge Hollezer said.

"Nevertheless these statistics prove that enactment of legislation enlarging the juridiction of the first two named tribunals has substantially relieved the principal trial courts."

MINING OLD PAY DIRT

MEDFORD, Ore., (UP)—Led by Mayor McIntyre, the community of Jacksonville, mining camp of the early'50's, is staging a "pick, shovel and rocker" mining industry. Nine "Town lot" gold diggings are in operation on a paying basis. The "pay dirt" underlies Jacksonville in three old ancient channels draining neighboring hills.

Divorce Decree Didn't Help

STRATFORD, Conn. (UP)—When John Yetter's wife sued him for non-support, he calmly produced a divorce decree which he obtained after "hitch-hiking" to Reno, Nev., and declared he couldn't support a woman who was no longer his mate. The court, however, decided differently and ordered him to pay $5 a week, refusing to take cognizance of the Nevada entry.

1931 GIRLS SCORN NEEDLE

WATERBURY, Conn (UP)—The old fashioned girl liked to sew and knit, but her modern sister apparently has little interest in plying the needle. The Waterbury Institute of Craft and Industry, after many years of service, decided to close its doors because of lack of interest and insufficient income to continue its work.

Wake Up Your Liver Bile —Without Calomel

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute.

HOLLYWOOD'S FILM SHOP

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., May 1 (UP)—Donald Crisp has returned to work as an actor in a motion picture studio situated on property he once owned and where, as a director, he made some of the most successful pictures of the screen.

Crisp's most recent employment is a matter of deliberate choice, and not of necessity. Inactivity palled upon him, and he resumed his earlier career as an actor.

It was in 1915 that Crisp, then producing and directing pictures, purchased 20 acres of land south of the then small city of Hollywood. Huge eucalyptus trees lined the country lane leading to the property. After using the property as a location for filming "Eyes of the World," he sold the ground to the Brunton Film Company, and later it was acquired by Paramount studios.

So Crisp and his makeup box went to Paramount studios, where he played one of th echief roles in Clara Bow's new picture, "Kick In."

Crisp for several years was a director for Paramount, later transferring to Cecil B. deMille. He directed Wallace Reid, Theodore Roberts, Lewis Stone and Fred Stone during this period.

In 1923 Crisp sought to return. The camera beckoned, however, and back he came to the films. Previously he had played important roles in "The Birth of a Nation," and "Broken Blossoms." In the latter film, his part as the villain was one of the most noteworthy achievements of his career.

HOW IT BEGAN

By Russ Murphy and Ray Senusky

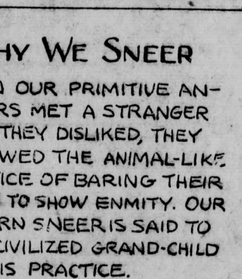

HOW THE KANGAROO WAS NAMED

ON ONE OF CAPTAIN COOK'S VOYAGES TO AUSTRALIA HE SAW SOME NATIVES WITH A DEAD ANIMAL. NEVER HAVING SEEN ONE LIKE IT, HE SENT SOME MEN TO FIND OUT WHAT IT WAS. THE NATIVES, NOT UNDERSTANDING THEIR INQUIRY REPLIED "KANG-GA-RO" (I DO NOT KNOW). THAT'S HOW THE KANGAROO GOT ITS NAME.

JANITOR

JANUS, THE ROMAN TWO-HEADED GOD, WAS WATCHER OF THE HEAVENLY GATES. THE ROMAN WORD FOR DOOR IS "JANUA," NAMED FOR "JANUS," AND BOTH THE ROMAN DOORKEEPER AND OUR MODERN JANITORS TOOK THEIR NAME FROM JANUS.

WHY WE SNEER

WHEN OUR PRIMITIVE ANCESTORS MET A STRANGER WHOM THEY DISLIKED, THEY FOLLOWED THE ANIMAL-LIKE PRACTICE OF BARING THEIR TEETH TO SHOW ENMITY. OUR MODERN SNEER IS SAID TO BE A CIVILIZED GRAND-CHILD OF THIS PRACTICE.

San Mateo County Promised Chapter In California's New "Encyclopaedia"

By HOMER ROBERTS

SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 1 (UP)—San Mateo county is to be given a whole chapter in the "Encyclopedia of California," now ready for the press.

This is the promise of Secretary of State Frank C. Jordan, who is now putting the final touches on the manuscript for the volume.

Profusely illustrated, the volume will set forth the resources and attractions of every county in California. All the statistical information, including population, acreage in farms, value of crops, etc., will be based on the 1930 census of the United States.

"Nothing like it has ever been published in California before," said Jordan. "This book has been a dream of mine for many years. When completed, it will stand as the one authoritive work on California."

The "encyclopedia" is in reality the 1931 edition of the California blue book, but issued in a new form and with new subject matter. No longer will there be pages of dry statistics and tables, and lists of county officials. These will be issued later in a separate state roster.

"The new book will be like a personally-conducted tour through California," added Jordan. "The story of each county will be told in vivid, colorful, interesting word-pictures. The book will have wide circulation all over the United States, and will bring publicity of inestimable value to all the counties represented."

First edition of the book will be 8,000 copies, and will go into all state libraries, the offices of all governor and secretaries of state in the United States, and to civic bodies. Ten copies will go to each state official and member of the legislature. This will leave approximately 2,000 copies to be distrbuted to the public, at $2.50 per copy. Thereafter the book will be published in additional editions sufficient to satisfy the demand.

Ice Companies Find Newspaper Advertising Best for Business

CHICAGO, April 30—Newspapers have proved to be ice companies' favorite advertising medium, according to the National Association of Ice Industries, which recently completed a survey of members' advertising.

This survey showed that forty-one representative ice companies in various sections of the country invested 52.36 per cent of their 1930 advertising appropriations in newspeper advertising. Good returns were had from this investment because the ice industry had its best year in 1930, one of the few major industries to show a gain in business over 1929—an increase in tonnage of 6 per cent.

"Advertising takes on news interest when it appears in newspapers," the association states, "and shares the good-will newspapers enjoy in their communities. We advise our members to advertise steadily in their newspapers."

Direct-mail advertising ran second with ice companies, taking an average of 13.11 per cent of 1930 appropriations. Outdoor posters were third with an average of 6.41 per cent.

Miscellaneous advertising accounted for 24.97 per cent of the 1930 ice advertising budget. This classification includes radio broadcasting, movie advertising, novelties and exhibitions.

"More advertising of ice refrigeration is expected in 1931 than ever before," the association asserts, "and it is probable that an increasing percentage will be put into the newspapers. Given good weather, the ice industry is certain to exceed its record sales of last year, in spite of increased competition for the consumers' refrigeration dollar. Ice companies are becoming aggressive merchandisers. Much space will be devoted to advertising the smart, new and efficient ice refrigerators now available at popular prices."

Week at the Capitol

SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 1 (UP)—Confronted with a series of hardy controversial problems, the state legislature must continue in session until May 15.

Plans to conclude the 1931 session May 8 were blasted when continued opposition to numerous bills precipitated unanticipated debates and prevented the senate and assembly from clearing their files of routine measures.

Certain state-wide problems are definitely out of the way, however. Governor Rolph has signed the redistricting measures providing for a new congressional and assembly lineup in favor of southern California, and also has approved the budget bill providing $266,000,000 for governmental expenditures during the next two years.

The administration won a notable victory when the budget bill was passed with amendments providing only $169,400 in reductions after the senate finance committee had approved a slash of almost $1,000,000.

The economy balloon, blown up by the so-called "cow country" faction, collapsed in the face of the senate's action. Members, apparently seeing the futility of curbing expenses, turned about and joined in the rush which so far has resulted in committee approval of approximately $5,000,000 in "pork barrel" appropriations, all of which are in excess of the budgeted expenses.

The proposed water conservation plan calling for the initial expenditure of $188,000,000, continues to be a stumbling block. Action is anticipated, however, in view of the threat that Governor Rolph will call a special sesson of the legislature if steps are not taken immediately to bring relief for thirsty agricultural regions.

Senator Bradford S. Crittenden, sponsor of porposed constitutional amendments authorizing the coordinated water plan, believes that recent amendments introduced to placate Sacramento and San Joaquin valley legislators who objected to certain financial and water transfer phases, will permit passage of the plan.

Final consideration of bills creating a state oil commission to conserve oil through conservation plans has been blocked repeatedly by representatives of independent producers who claim the measures by Senator Will R. Sharkey, Martinez, are sponsored by the major companies "for selfish purposes only." As the most recent development, the senate oil industry committee refused approval of a resolution by Senator J. M. Inman, Sacramento, seeking an investigation of the asserted price fixing of crude oil.

The question of capital punishment, called to the attention of the legislature by bills seeking the abolition of the death penalty, has been further complicated by the introduction of a bill by Senator Charles H. Deuel, Chico, seeking to substitute the gallows with lethal gas in the execution of condemned criminals.

Members of the senate also are vitally interested in a series of bills which would give county boards of supervisors a check on school budgets, and permit taxpayers to appeal from expenditures set up by school trustees.

BUDDIE AND HIS FRIENDS

BY ROBERT L. DICKEY

Legislative... Sidelights...

SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 1 (UP)—Senator Ralph E. Swing, San Bernardino, was suffering from a throat ailment and could barely speak above a committee meeting. "If," commented an unidentified colleague, "a few more senators would lose their voices like that, maybe we could adjourn May 1st instead of the 15th."

Lieutenant Governor Frank F. Merriam recently gave a banquet for newspapermen at the legislature, at which Justus Craemer and William Hart of Orange were the guests of honor. Everything was going along fine until the last course was served. Then one of the guests observed: "At a dinner where everything has been appropriate, it seems a bit out of place that lemon pie should be served to the gentlemen from Orange."

Hugh McKevitt, San Francisco attorney, was making an eloquent address about a bill before the senate labor and capital committee. He was just reaching a dramatic climax after 20 minutes of argument, when he was interrupted, ever so politely, "Pardon, me, Mr. McKevitt," interposed Senator J. M. Inman, Sacramento, "but are you for or against this bill?"

It has previously been reported that Senator George W. Rochester, Los Angeles, boasted that he never became embarassed. He met his Waterloo the other day, however, when his chair tipped ove with a loud crash and ruffled the customary dignity of the senate chamber. Being the youngest member of the upper house, he was forgiven—but did he blush?

Assemblyman Lucius Powers, Jr., Fresno, speaking before the governmental efficiency committee, asserted that "piano tuning was more than a calling—it's an art." This plea for approval of his bill creating a state piano tuners' board was answered by a flood of suggestions for other examining boards for everything from bootblacks "who work on shoes," to mechanics who "tune" motors. Incidentally the bill was voted down.

California's senators must have their moment of fun—their hour of joval relaxation, so the Monday Night Club once more is functioning with its customary weekly dinners. The resourceful Senator Herbert W. Slater, Santa Rosa, who always has a snappy response ready, presides at the informal gatherings and assures the upper house members of a few wide-awake moments.

Assemblymen long ago gave up the idea of setting their watches by the clock in the lower house chamber, which is never right. Just from force of habit there have been mutterings that "there oughta be a law," but nothing has been done about it yet.

MARSHFIELD, Ore., (UP)—An octopus, measuring nearly eight feet from tip to tip of its tenacles, was caught off the mouth of Sunset bay by John Walters of Marshfield. He placed it in a tub in his back yard and it displayed life the following morning. The same afternoon it still had slight suction in the suckers near the tips of its tenacles.

NEW VICTIM

Photo shows Mrs. W. B. Bibbens, whose murder, the third in San Diego, Cal., within the past three months, has baffled solution. The woman's body, clad in blue pajamas, was found in her apartment recently. Police declare she had been dead a week. She had been struck on the head, then strangled, giving rise to the theory that her assailant is the same man who killed Virginia Brooks and Louise Teuber.

STATE WHEAT CROP NEAR MILLION ACRES

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, April 30—(UP)—California's march toward the "million-acre" class in wheat production has been halted by extremely low prices.

This as apparent in a report of the state board of equalization, with the possibility that the acreage may be further reduced by continued "rock bottom" prices for important grains.

Of the 925,238 acres planted to wheat in 1930, a total of 100 acres were credited to San Mateo county, the state report shows .

The state's production represents a substantial decrease from 1929, when 948,973 acres were planted to wheat, according to the board of equalization survey.

In terms of actual production, California farmers produce annually approximately 12,000,000 bushels, or less than half the wheat requirements of the state, according to a report made to Governor Rolph by the University of California.

An adjourned session of the Council of Chosen Friends is to be held next Monday night.

John Christ will be a candidate for town marshal in opposition to Harry Grimmenstein, candidate of the court house meeting of Wednesday night.

William Nichols says he is still a candidate for town clerk and will remain in the field, nomination or no nomination, until after the close of the polls next Monday night.

Will Frisbie has just received a fresh invoice of the celebrated Nabob whiskey direct from the distillery. Frisbie is the sole agent in this county for this whiskey and always has a stock on hand for sale by the bottle or by the gallon.

The Poplar Saloon, Lon Cook, proprietor, is undergoing thorough and complete overhauling, repainting, decorating and general rejuvenating. This saloon is an old landmark in Redwood City, and has been from time immemorial a favorite and attractive resort.

Miss Elizabeth Mills, daughter of Mr. D. O. Mills of Milbrae, was married on Tuesday evening at the winter residence of her father to Whitelaw Reid editor of the N. Y. Tribune.

"The trend of world wheat production during the next few years will, no doubt, be determined principally by the trend of production in Canada, Argentina and Russia," the report states.

"During the past 20 years production in Canada has increased by an average of 15,000,000 bushels annually, while Argentina reports a yearly increase of 5,500,000 bushels, while plans of the Russian Soviet would provide a source of large export."

During the four-year period ending in 1929, California imported an average of 16,200,000 bushels of wheat in the form of grain and flour, 50 per cent of which came from Washington and Oregon. The states of Idaho, Utah, and Montana furnished 37 per cent, the remainder coming from other states.

This situation tends to give wheat farmers of California an advantage in price equal to the freight from other areas, and with the establishment of a more stable world market and higher prices, is expected to give impetus to local productions

Maintenance of High Wages Is Imperative To Business Today

Hoover Warns Against Move To Force Down Pay In the Nation

By THOMAS L. STOKES

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. Apr. 29 (UP)—An administration warning against wage cutting as a means of restoring normal business conditions was given the Unted States Chamber of Commerce conventon today by Robert P. Lamont, secretary of commerce.

Thereafter the 3,000 delegates frankly discussed the eighteen month business slump, its causes, its effects, and ways to guard against a repetition of it.

Unemployment insurance, revision of the anti-trust laws to meet modern mass-production, individual industry stabilization schemes, installment buying and its effects, the tariff, the wage scale, federal and state taxation, railroad, bus and waterway competition were among the subjects discussed.

Lamont, in a speech that had been carefully examined by President Hoover, did not attempt to minimize the depression, described it as the worst since the Civil War, and perhaps the worst in all history.

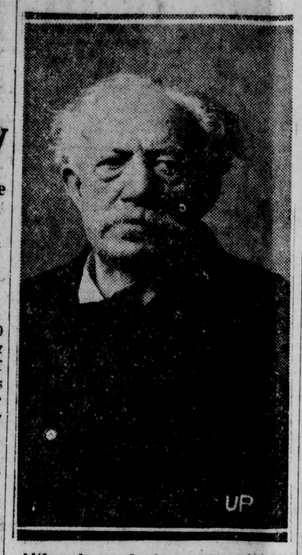

But he told the business men, that they must come out of it normally by setting their own house in order. He discounted the value of great building projects as much of a permanent aid. He touched not at all on unemployment insurance and other suggested remidies except to urge business men in the future to get up a reserve for repetition of such recessions.

Without specifically mentioning the wage cut contraversy, the commerce secretary reminded the business men, some of whom favor wage reductions, that "the most prosperous periods of our industrial history have been those coincident with high wages and shorter hours."

He recalled the "bitter and destructive strikes" which followed wage slashing in previous depressions.

The business men who spoke at the various round-table conferences which went on all over this city today and at the mass meeting at night when stabilization was discussed from all its aspects, must not hesitate to criticize themselves, but were skeptical about various schemes suggested, including unemployment insurance, and seemed to fall back upon Lamont's advice, that they must bring themselves out of this depression and plan for the future by reorganizing their methods.
